INFECTION CONTROL PRODUCTS FOR THE MEDICAL, EDUCATIONAL AND FOOD SERVICE INDUSTRIES

We started using the Brevis Glitterbug hand washing training in our FDI classes years ago and every month, our attendees come away with a renewed vigor to train their staff on correct handwashing procedures.

Brevis Corporation was conceived and created by J. Gordon Short, MD, a board-certified pathologist. The company was incorporated in 1978 with its first product being a pathology workstation for gross examination of surgical specimens. Also, the company designed and produced Isolation Signs and Labels for use in health-care facilities.

Since then, Brevis has continued to develop products for infection control needs and laboratory use. Recently, our product line emphasizes handwashing training, education and motivation products and includes the Glitterbug fluorescent teaching systems.

The company provides training videos, aids and posters on all facets of health and safety in the workplace. They have an on line catalog and ordering is very easy. I have also found the staff to be extremely helpful in assisting with advise on products.
